In his newly released book, Paul Ortiz shows how placing African American, Latinx, and Indigenous voices unapologetically front and center transforms American history into the story of resistance and the working class organizing against imperialism.

Thursday, Feb. 22, 2018, 7pm-9pm
Colleges Nine and Ten
Multipurpose Room

For information or accommodations, email coco@ucsc.edu

Cosponsored by Colleges Nine and Ten cocurricular programs, El Centro: Chicano Latino Resource Center, American Indian Resource Center, and African American Resource and Cultural Center

Images courtesy of the Bob Fitch Photography Archive, Stanford